Gross sales amount report for Atliq Exclusive by month

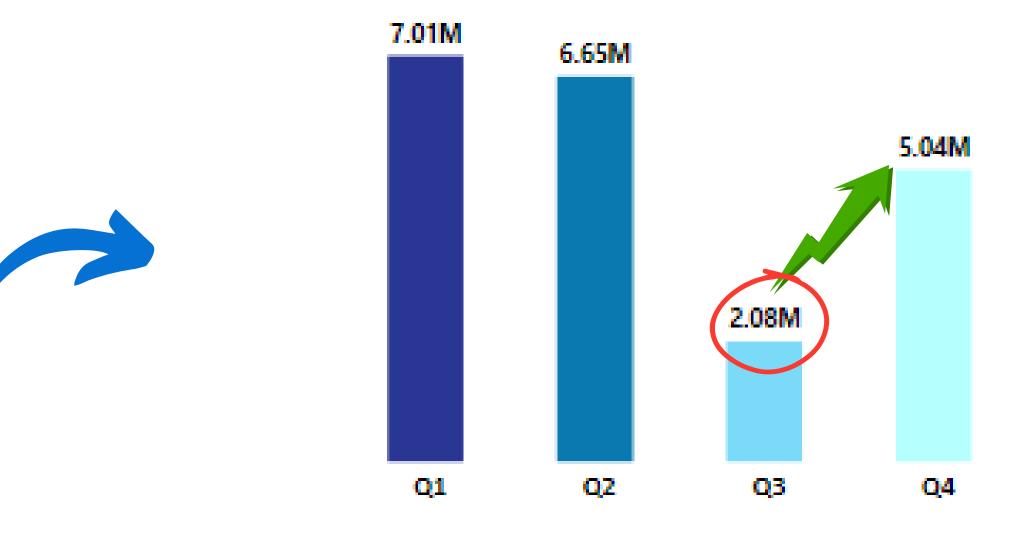

For Atliq Exclusive, November 2020 saw the peak in sales, whereas March 2020 recorded the lowest figures. The reduction in sales from March through August is clearly linked to the COVID-19 pandemic and Global Chip Shortage which arised due to disruptions in supply chain and logistic. Notably, sales rebounded strongly after August, reaching their highest level in two years by November.

This further supports our earlier analysis of COVID-19's effect on sales. In Q3 of FY 2020—comprising March, April, and May, when the pandemic was most severe—sales volumes fell to 2.1 million. Despite the pandemic's persistence, we began to recover quickly. This early rebound in Q4 is likely due to the increased demand for hardware like desktops and notebooks, as students transitioned to online learning, leading to a significant rise in the need for computer accessories.
